

GILL NET FISH WENT TO SPLIT

Live Pollock Landed by These Boats Totalled About 70,000 Pounds.

Arrivals here since yesterday are few, not an off shore craft of any kind being reported.

Sch. Smuggler from dory handlining, which arrived yesterday had 225,000 of cod which go to the Gorton-Pew Fisheries Company, her owners.

The down east sch. Laura & Marion arrived yesterday with a cargo of cured fish for the market, while this morning sch. Helen G. Wells is here with 30,000 pounds of pollock to split.

The gill netters had the best day yesterday since starting, landing nearly 70,000 pounds of fish, mostly pollock. Nearly all the trips went to the splitters, the Gloucester Salt Fish Company, Gorton-Pew Fisheries Company and Cunningham & Thompson Company taking the bulk of the landings.

STILL GOING TO THE SPLITTERS

Gill Netters Find There is No
Demand for Pollock for Market.

Only one off shore arrival was reported here this morning, sch. Titania from an eastern deck handlining trip, being in with 30,000 pounds of salt cod.

During the forenoon, sch. Athlete, Capt. Thomas Benham arrived from her second dory handlining trip of the season with 140,000 pounds of salt cod, after an absence since July 30.

The gill netters were out Saturday and yesterday, several of the larger steamers landing good fares of pollock. Over 150,000 pounds were brought in the two days, which went to the splitters to salt.

The torchers made some good hauls of herring last evening which sold for bait.

Sch. Nora D. Sawyer, another of the Maine coasting fleet is here with a cargo of cured fish.

BAD WEATHER HURTS DRAGGERS

The past three nights have been poor ones for the draggers, the storm of Friday evening having kicked up a nasty sea outside, so that the fleet have been held in port.

Some of them will make an attempt to get out tonight, however, provided it moderates.

Fishermen along the Cape Breton coast have been reaping a harvest the past few weeks at mackerelling. Capt. Richard Wadding of sch. Atalanta, who arrived home Saturday from the Nova Scotia, where the craft secured a cargo of salt cod, says that the fishermen at Cheticamp, Cape Breton were having splendid fishing there when he left, large mackerel being taken on the jig.

GOOD PICKEREL FISHING.

Among the lot of pickerel, caught at Fernwood yesterday by Elroy Prior, 11 years old, was one that weighed three pounds and one ounce. It was quite a fight to bring him to land, but Elroy expects to land more like him.

FISH RECEIPTS FOR SEPTEMBER

Launched New Schooner.

A fine fishing schooner of 140 tons gross was launched from the shipyard of Howard Allen and company at Lockeport, N. S., last Thursday. Her length is 118 feet over all; depth 11 feet. She is of the semi-knockabout style, and up-to-date in every particular. The accommodations are finished in ash and walnut and topt with Clyde River oak. Her lines are similar to the latest Boston models and good judges call her the best looking schooner ever built here. The vessel's name is Mardica.

Portland Fishing Notes.

The steamer Elthier is about the only one of the local fleet that is having any kind of success in the herring fishery just now. She made a scoop of 10 barrels Thursday evening which she baited out to the fishermen at Biddeford Pool.

Hopes are entertained that the packet sch. Myra Sears, which sunk outside Portsmouth harbor Tuesday morning while bound to Portland, may yet be saved as the water in which she sunk is not very deep.

Fresh Fish.

Haddock, $1.10 per cwt.

NOT MAKING MUCH NOISE ABOUT IT

But American Buyers are Picking Up Newfoundland Cod.

American buyers have picked up a good many quintals of green fish on the South and West Coasts the present fall, says the St. John's, N. F., Trade Review, but there are two features present in the situation this season that were not apparent last year, or the year before.

The first is that the buyers have held off till later than usual and the second, they are not making as much noise over the business. They evidently realize that their manifest eagerness to buy in other years sent the price of the salt bulk and green fish too high, and hence, their more cautious and slower movements this fall. The agents on the coast have evidently grown wise to the unwisdom of a display of too much eagerness.

There has been a slight advance in the price of the better grades of codfish during the week. Two firms in the West-end of the city have forced the pace, and others have followed suit. Several firms, however, have come to the conclusion that the price is, at present, too high, and they have dropped out of buying. Last week, the best price obtainable for prime goods was $6.40; today, a choice article can be sold for $6.60. The firms that have dropped out stopped at $6.50, which, they say, is the highest that they can afford to give, considering present market conditions. The belief is general that the top is now reached, owing to the fact that there is more fish coming into port, and offering for sale, than was anticipated.

At the figures quoted above, everything in Shore fish goes, from West India up, and there is less thrown out for West India than there was last week. The greatest lift, relatively speaking, has been in Labrador shore-cured fish, which is selling this morning at from $6.00 to $6.40, according to general run of cargo. Labrador ordinary cure, of which there is very little offering, is still quoted at $4.00 in St. John's. A feature of the situation this year is the large amount of late-caught shore fish coming in, and by the look of things at present, there will be less fish carried over the coming winter than for many years. The high price given, the almost complete absence of cull, and the remarkably fine weather for curing in late September and early October account for this condition.

LANDED PLENTY BAIT LAST NIGHT

Herring Torchers Came from Across the Bay With 250 Barrels.

Sch. Flora L. Nickerson is here this morning from Belleoram, Newfoundland, with a cargo of 300,000 pounds of salt cod for the Gorton-Pew Fisheries Company, it being the third arrival of fish from the Newfoundland and Nova Scotia coasts, consigned to that firm during the past few days.

No off-shore arrivals were reported. Sch. Edith Silveria brought in about 15,000 weight of hake, which sold to George Perkins & Son to split.

Yesterday was the best day yet for the gill netters, over 125,000 pounds of pollock being landed yesterday afternoon, which sold to the splitters to salt.

The local torchers and Newburyport boats did well last evening, about 250 barrels of herring being landed, which sold to Cooney and McDonald, the hustling bait dealers.
